DEMI MOORE
THE ETERNAL COMEBACK

Slow Production & ARTE France

Demi Moore made a stunning comeback in The Substance, winning her first Golden Globe after 45 years in Hollywood. Once dismissed as a “popcorn actress” then a “cougar,” she faced Hollywood’s harsh beauty standards. Beyond the tabloids, her career shows a resilient, socially engaged actress whose personal struggles shaped her bold choices.

SAMUEL L. JACKSON,
THE ALTER HERO(ES)

Brotherfilms & ARTE France

He is the complete opposite of African American actors who have become icons of American identity, successful stand-up comedians or action heroes. As the embodiment of Black America, in its violence and on its fringes, he carries the essence of the ghetto, the streets, and the struggle.

OLIVER STONE, THE OUTSIDER

Roche Productions & ARTE France

Oliver Stone is the guilty conscience of an America he never hesitates to expose. The director of Platoon, Wall Street, Born on the Fourth of July, JFK, and Natural Born Killers sees cinema as a quest for truth bordering on obsession, shaped by two major traumas that have forever marked America: the Vietnam War and the assassination of Kennedy.
